The work of the district nurse is not a new branch for the United Workers to undertake, she said. Through the generosity of many friends and the state hospital, who have for the past eight years furnished a nurse, we have had those who have done good and faithful work and been a blessing in this community. Times have changed and methods also, and we are to hear this evening of the many ways in which a graduate nurse and social worker can come into the homes of this city and bring help and comfort.
